Functions are the bread and butter of JavaScript programming. The concept of wrapping a piece of program in a value has many uses. It gives us a way to structure larger programs, to reduce repetition, to associate names with subprograms, and to isolate these subprograms from each other. The most obvious application of functions is defining new vocabulary. Creating new words in prose is usually ...

Functions :: Eloquent JavaScript
A worker is a JavaScript process that runs alongside the main script, on its own timeline. Imagine that squaring a number is a heavy, long-running computation that we want to perform in a separate thread. We could write a file called code/ squareworker. js that responds to messages by computing a square and sending a message back. addEventListener ("message", event => { postMessage (event ...
